<sup>1</sup>The benchmark is an equally-weighted blend of (1) 50% Barclays US Emerging Markets Bond Index and (2) 50% Barclays Global Treasury Majors Index (USD Hedged). The Barclays US Emerging Markets Bond Index includes fixed- and floating-rate USD-denominated debt from emerging markets in the following regions: Americas, Europe, Middle East, Africa, and Asia. For the index, an emerging market is defined as any country that has a long-term foreign currency debt sovereign rating of Baa1/BBB+/BBB+ or below, using the middle rating of Moody's, S&P, and Fitch. The Barclays Global Treasury Majors Index (USD Hedged) tracks fixed-rate local currency government debt of major developed market countries. An investor cannot invest directly in an index. Net total return indices reinvest dividends after the deduction of withholding taxes, using (for international indices) a tax rate applicable to non-resident institutional investors who do not benefit from double taxation treaties.

The rating for each security held by the Fund is generally determined based on the ratings given by the nationally recognized statistical rating organizations Moody's Investors Service, Standard & Poor's Ratings Services and Fitch Ratings Ltd. If all three organizations have rated the security, the median rating is used. If only two organizations have rated the security, the lower rating is used. If a single organization has rated the security, that rating is used. Securities that have not been rated by any of the organizations, if any, are shown as "Not Rated." The ratings represent the opinions of the rating organizations (S&P, Moody's and Fitch) as to the quality of the securities they rate. The ratings range from AAA (extremely strong capacity to meet its financial commitment) to D (in default). Ratings are relative and subjective and are not absolute standards of quality. The ratings provided relate to the underlying securities within the fund and not the fund itself.

RISK FACTORS

Fixed Income Securities — (bonds) tend to experience smaller fluctuations in value than equity securities. However, investors in any bond fund should anticipate fluctuations in price, especially for longer term issues and in environments of rising interest rates.

Asset Allocation — the Fund's ability to achieve its investment objective will depend, in part on the investment manager's ability to select the best asset allocation of assets across the various developed and emerging markets. There is a risk that the investment manager's evaluations and assumptions may be incorrect in view of actual market condition.

Credit — the issuer of a fixed income security, or the counterparty to a contract, such as swaps or other derivatives, may become unable or unwilling to meet its financial obligations. Various market participants, such as rating agencies or pricing services, also may affect the security by downgrading the credit of the issuer of the security, which may decrease the value.

Derivative — the Fund may utilize derivatives for hedging purposes, to enhance returns or to obtain exposure to various market sectors. The risks of derivatives include liquidity, interest rate, market, credit and management risks. The instrument may be also mispriced or improperly valued, and the fund could lose more than the principal amount invested. Unpredictable or rapid changes in the currency markets could also negatively affect the value of currency derivatives, such as currency forward/futures contracts.

Emerging Market Investing may be subject to additional economic, political, liquidity, and currency risks not associated with more developed countries.
